

Monos Arson Case Set For Tomorrow

May Term of Criminal Court Opened Today—Blankenship Case Postponed.

The May criminal term of the corporation court got under way at ten o'clock this morning when the special grand jury was sworn in and charged by Judge D. Price Withers. The court merely defined the general duties of the grand jury and made no special recommendation for investigation along any certain line. The cases prepared by the commonwealth's attorney will be placed before the body during the course of the day. William P. Boatwright is foreman of the grand jury. The other seven members being J. A. Lawson, Randolph Meade, R. L. Pearson, J. H. Winkler, George S. Moore, E. H. Marshall, W. C. Turner.

The forenoon was devoted to setting cases carried over from the last term for certain dates when hearings will be held. There are about 40 such cases. The trial of W. H. Blankenship who is charged with shooting and killing Giles Walker several months ago, has been continued until the next term of court. Commonwealth's Attorney Carter said that he had no legal grounds for continuance, but declared that it would suit him better. Opposing counsel withdrew and finally the motion to pass by until the next term was renewed and allowed by the court. A jury at the civil term of court heard the action for damages instituted by Walker's wife against Blankenship but it could not agree.

The automobile cases, involving W. M. Snod and C. A. Frazier, were called this morning. Mr. Carter said that he would be in a position this afternoon to state definitely if he would be ready to try these cases at the present term of court. They were passed by until the afternoon session.

A warm argument arose today between counsel for Harris Monos, who is charged with setting fire to his restaurant on lower Main street last January, and who was indicted by a suddenly-called special grand jury a few weeks ago.

The case was set for today and counsel for Monos were ready for the case to be gone into this morning. Mr. Carter, however, asked that it be set for any day except today, which was agreeable to a hearing tomorrow. It developed that Mr. Carter had been unable to secure the indictment on Saturday night and that as a result one of his witnesses had gone to Mar-

Bold Jimmy Thief Bought Home Here

Joseph Lauzon Most Daring of Present Day Cracksmen, Tells in Interview of Danville Visit.

An interesting local sidelight in the career of crime of Joseph Lauzon, professional cracksmen, who was recently captured in Washington with a hundred or more successful burglaries to his credit, is contained in yesterday's Washington Post, which contained a lengthy news article on the Jimmy thief's career. In his cell at Washington he became communicative and gave a sketch of his life. Lauzon is considered one of the most daring thieves ever sought by the police, and he has had many thousands by his midnight visits to the homes of the wealthy.

Local interest in the man centers on his statement that after escaping from jail in Jackson, Mich., he came to Danville and purchased a house and lot for $5,000, undertaking a series of burglaries which netted him enough to pay for the premises. The year of his visit to Danville is not given. That part of the interview bearing on this city runs as follows:

"A month after reaching Detroit, the man continued, he and an accomplice robbed a house in the suburban district, and after trying a heavy piece of iron to it, threw it into the river. In doing that I followed a prearranged plan that should either of us get seriously injured in making an escape after robbing a house, the other was to follow that procedure."

"While he would not divulge the name of the companion who had been shot to death, Lauzon admitted that he had supported the man's mother and sister since by sending them $50 a month.

"The prisoner seemed to take delight in telling of his experiences in crime. He slipped up on a job at Detroit the following year," he chuckled, "and was captured after a chase through the principal streets of the city, in which more than a dozen pistol shots were fired by the pursuing officers. I was convicted of burglary and sentenced to five years at hard labor at Jackson, Mich."

"Shortly after entering the prison, however, I made friends with the guards and officials and was placed in charge of the prison records. I did not have to enter my cell until 11 o'clock at night, and each night, when opportunity presented, I would climb the iron bars in the chapel of the prison. After three months of effort, I escaped at 10 o'clock on a Saturday night and set sail for Danville, Va., where I bought a house for $5,000. The following week I 'jimmied' my way into fifteen apartments and gathered enough loot to pay for the house."

Preparing For Annual Athletic Event Of Schools

Arrangements are being made for the annual athletic meet of the public schools of the city. The physical department of the Y. M. C. represented by its physical director, George N. Savage, has interviewed the principals of the various schools of the city all of whom are interested and promise the hearty co-operation of their teaching staff in the promotion of the annual event.

The following events have been selected for the present season: For the girls, high jump; standing broad jump; 50-yard dash; basketball throw for distance; baseball throw for distance; and for the boys, high jump; standing broad jump; running broad jump; 50-yard dash; baseball throw for distance.

Following the visit of the physical director to the respective schools and conference with the principals, arrangements were made with the principal of each school to take charge of the practice of the pupils in their school in the various events and at a later date to be chosen by the principal and director, a try-out will be given, after which the two pupils making the best record in any one event will represent their school in the inter-school meet to be held during the latter part of May.

The physical director states that, judging from the interest manifested by the principals of the schools and the pupils who will have been his pleasure to meet that the event this year will exceed in interest that of former years.

Nearly Made His Escape With Pint

About 9 o'clock Saturday night Policeman A. C. Morgan and L. H. Harris, while patrolling their beat in Moore's bottom saw Charles McKinney go into a certain house in that vicinity, and knowing the general reputation of the place, the officers decided to wait for him to come out. It was but a few minutes before McKinney again appeared, and he was chased down by a short distance up the street when Morgan called out "Hey, Charlie, hold on there." McKinney replied, "wait a minute," and kept walking. They started in pursuit and McKinney started to run. A chase then ensued and after covering a short distance McKinney darted into a gate with the police close behind him. Up the steps he went, two and three at a time. When he reached the door he made a plunging slide for home in a ball game. Morgan was close behind and proceeded to stage the same act, but instead of sliding the officer landed on McKinney's back, reached into his pocket and found a small bottle of whisky, which had been the real cause of the whole incident. McKinney was placed under arrest and charged with a violation of the Mapp Act.

Love's Labor Lost On Yanceyville Road

Police Officer "Buck" Mayberry, and W. M. Styles spent a couple of hours on Sunday evening into the mysteries of a "super-sleuth," which, in short notice, refused a behavior, which caused them with a world of trouble. They had journeyed out on the Yanceyville road in the car, Mayberry driving, when the latter decided to quench his thirst at a stream. He pulled up his hand-brake and threw his car out of gear. Returning, however, the machine failed to respond to the starter, neither would the car start. Its misbehavior was such as to defy coaxing, and so both came to the conclusion that the starting mechanism was out of order. They got out the tool kits, and worked with a vim, while the end of a "puffer" day approached, and with it Charlie Carter, an experienced mechanic, who performed the chivalric act of asking if he could be of any help. Both Mayberry and Styles were non-plussed over the condition of the car when it was discovered by Mr. Carter that Mr. Styles had unwittingly thrown the car in low gear while Mayberry was enjoying the limpid stream which passed nearby, hence the inability to get the machine started.

Must Pay Poll Tax This Week or Lose Vote

The current week is the last period of grace for the voters of this state who have failed up until this time to pay their 1931 capitation tax as a prerequisite for voting in the election in November and the intervening August primary. Women are leading the men in the payment of the tax in Danville, and the same is true in several Virginia cities. Unless the poll taxes are paid this week, it will disqualify those who desire to cast their vote in the primary, when Virginia will choose between Senator Claude Swanson, and Senator Landon Davis, who is aspiring to the Senate.

Contract Is Let For Averett Wing

Local Concern Gets Elevator Contract For Masons' Temple

It was learned this morning that the contract to install elevators in the Masonic Temple has been won by the local concern, the Westbrook Elevator Company in open competitive bidding against nine other well known concerns. Efforts to learn the contract price were unavailing today, an official of the concern stating that the amount had not yet been made public. The contract, however, calls for three elevators, two passenger carriers and the third a sidewalk lift which will be situated in the rear of the temple and used in getting heavy material into the building.

The two passenger cars will be in the main lobby and will be the last word in elevators, with a speed of 300 feet a minute. They are to be equipped with the newest type of safety appliances, and, it is said, these are so perfect that in the event of the cable holding the passenger car breaking, safety clutches become operative automatically, and hold the car wherever it is. Before the elevators are put into use this test will be made and the cable of one of the elevators will be cut while it is running at top speed, in order to see that the protective device is working properly.

His Hen Fruit Had Kick To It

While Police Officer Foster Harris was standing on the street Saturday afternoon he overheard a negro remark about the basket of eggs he was carrying. The officer paid little attention at the time but after the negro had passed, it was noticed that the basket appeared unusually heavy and seemed to be sagging at every corner. This aroused the officer's suspicion and he started the walk behind the negro with the "eggs."

The man in front saw that he was being followed by his guilty conscious made him believe he was, anyway. He glanced over his shoulder and on seeing the bluecoat, proceeded to add to his speed. So did the officer and both were soon walking at a rapid rate. The negro turned down Pope House alley and put the basket on the ground, grabbed his hat and away he sped. The last seen of him he was going in the direction of the St. Albans street. Harris took charge of the basket and on opening it up, found that the negro's eggs proved to be three gallons of moonshine, which was wrapped in newspapers. The officer brought the whisky to the courthouse but reported that as luck would have it, his prospective prisoner had proved to be a fast runner and had given him "leg bail."

15-Year-Old Boy Has Novel Way To Catch Fish

WYTHEVILLE, April 30.—Older fishermen, residing in this section "take off their hats" to Bert Cox, 15 years old, who lives on New River, near Jackson's ferry, east of Wytheville.

Included in his catch on Tuesday were one catfish weighing 39 pounds and another catfish weighing 28 lbs. The young man spent his time in selection of bait, using worms, minnows, bugs or dough as may be most convenient.

His method of landing the larger fish hooked is somewhat original and consists of fastening a line on which the fish is hooked to the end of his canoe and allowing the fish to worry itself into submission. It is then lifted into the canoe without danger of breaking the hold of the hook in its mouth and escaping.

Declare Martial Law At Peking

PEKING, April 30.—Martial law was declared in Peking today. The armies of General Chang Tso-Lin and General Wu Pei Fu fought continuously throughout Sunday. The fighting centered around Chang's position, 12 miles distant. A government communique says Chang Tso-Lin was victorious in the fighting at Machang. The American legation has requested Washington to send another warship to Tien-Tsin.

President Hsu Shih Chang, in consequence of the hostilities today issued three proclamations calling attention to the serious situation in the north which might result from the jeopardizing of foreign interests.

The first proclamation said that the Chinese people were terrified, that merchants were suffering losses and the industry of the nation was demoralized.

The second proclamation declared that as Peking was the capital of the nation, peace and order must prevail.

Bowling Alley Proprietor Held Request for Another Warship

Walter Cheshire, who operates a bowling alley on lower Main street, was arrested Saturday when police officers found a small quantity of whisky in his place.

Sergeant J. L. Edwards and Patrolman Mayberry, Price, Talley and Detective Campbell went to the place which they had suspected for some time. They found two pint bottles in a convenient place to serve the purpose. Small compartments had been built under a bench, which ordinarily would attract no attention but such places are the chief officers' usual search. Besides the two full bottles they found several empty ones and a number of drinking glasses. They brought a charge against Cheshire and the case was set for Wednesday.

Russians Plot To Dictate

BY HARRY N. RICE
Special Cable to NEA Service, Copyright, 1922, by NEA Service.

GENOA, May 1.—Before Lloyd George left London for Genoa he made a speech in parliament outlining his plans. One of the opposition remarked that in attempting to bring the Russians back into the family of nations, the premier was embarking in a dark and difficult mission.

There is reason to believe that Lloyd George now knows how exactly the situation is.

It is doubtful whether he would have made the attempt in just the way he has if he could have known that he would have to face a German-Russian combination and guard his rear against a French attack.

As events have developed, the British premier has been put in the most critical position in his career. He has gone too far to turn back.

Slipping Toward War
Now he must successfully conclude a treaty with Russia in which other European powers will join. The alternative is not only personal defeat, which would probably cost him the premiership, but Europe as a whole will be further from permanent peace and normal industrial life than at any time since the war.

This last is not a loose statement, made for the purpose of sensation. It is a literal fact.

Two of the highest officials of the British government, speaking with authority to American and British newspaper men, have pointed this out as the irresistible logic of the situation created by the German-Russian treaty and the German-Russian attitude since the treaty was signed.

Russians the Canoe
This attitude, even more than the treaty itself, is what is causing the allies to take such a grave view. Up to the time the treaty was signed, the Russians seemed to be in a very reasonable, even a conciliatory, mood. And the Germans were so quiet that it looked as though it would be a comparatively simple matter to line up the whole of Europe on a sane program of peace and reconstruction.

Since signing the treaty with Germany, the Russians have entirely changed their attitude, and there seems to be no doubt that every move they make is the result of decisions between themselves and the Germans. They have made definite proposals to the allies—and then withdrawn them. They have made direct answers to the allied proposals—and then insisted upon fantastic interpretations of these answers.

The Russian policy seems to be to take the fullest advantage of the position which their alliance with Germany gives them and to force the rest of Europe—through fear of future German-Russian military aggression—to make a treaty with them on Russia's own terms.

These terms, so far as they can be despoiled from Russia's various proposals, answers and propaganda, include full recognition of the Soviets and the granting of large credits by other European nations in return for which the Soviets agree to recognize pre-war debts, payment to be deferred 30 years without interest.

They insist upon having all their war debts wiped out and are very hazy as to how they will pay foreign nationals for property which they have confiscated since the revolution.

The Russians' whole idea now seems to be that by shrewd diplomacy and the German alliance they are in a position to dictate terms to the rest of Europe, and especially to Great Britain.

French Fairly Mad
The French reaction to this may be imagined. The French see in it a deliberate German policy of cheating them out of money loaned to Russia, driving a wedge between France and England, and finally a coalition of eastern Europe against them for military aggression.

The French are fairly insane with anger. One of the evidence being the speech of Premier Poincaré at Barle Duc.

The British, on the other hand, while fully appreciating the gravity of the situation and their responsibility in calling the conference, are determined not to break with the Russians if there is any possibility of avoiding it.

They frankly say they consider establishing good relations between Germany and Russia and the rest of Europe is so necessary to future peace that they are willing to concede every possible point.

But there is a point beyond which even the British will not go. That point is to make a treaty with Russia and give her financial assistance, at the same time allowing her to renege her debts.

It is pointed out that even if the allied delegates at Genoa made such a treaty no allied parliament would ratify it.

Even now public opinion in both France and England is becoming increasingly antagonistic to the Genoa negotiations with the Soviets.

When Lord Birkenhead, chancellor of England, said the situation was "ever more delicate he was not over-stating the case. It is tragic as well as delicate.

CHEATED OF FAME BY MISTAKE IN LETTER

MRS. JEAN O. WIERK

OAKLAND, Cal., May 1.—For 15 years Mrs. Jean O. Wierk has been cheated of fame by a trick of fate.

Charles G. Norris, novelist and author of the "best seller," "Brass," lecturing before clubwomen here, was telling of the discouragements which befall new writers. He said:

"Somewhere in this country a great authoress has been buried for years. In my days as manuscript reader for a magazine, a story called 'Blue Pearl' reached my desk one day. It was a wonder story. I saw in it the budding of a genius. I was so enthusiastic that I passed it to another reader. He saved over it and passed it on.

"Manuscript Returned
"In some fanner it was lost in this way, and was returned, by an assistant, to the writer, a rejection slip enclosed.

"I nearly cried. All we could remember was the pen name—Gladys Eichel Olney. For years I have waited to see that name become famous, but doubtless the story was by some girl who, discouraged by rejection, never tried to write again."

Mrs. Wierk was among the lecturer's hearers. A little later she told her friends, "I was very interested in what Mr. Norris said. I wrote that story. And she wrote it at the age of 18, in a small Michigan town, then her home. Upon its rejection, she gave up in despair.

Norris immediately offered to help her, but she wonders if it is not too late.

"My circumstances," she says, "are modest. I have been forced to work for five years I have been a saleswoman. I have lost my dreams, my youthful ideals. Will they come back? I don't know."

Russia Is Not Hostile To France

GENOA, May 1.—Russian Foreign Minister Tchitcherine has written a letter to Vice-Premier Barthou, France, assuring him that no secret military or political moves were included in the Russo-German treaty signed on Easter Sunday at Rapallo. He said Russia is not hostile toward France, notwithstanding France's unfriendly attitude toward Russia.

May Attempt To Break Will Of John E. Hughes

From reliable sources it has been gathered that Col. W. T. Hughes intends to take legal action looking to the breaking of the will of John E. Hughes, his brother, who died Monday, March 27, leaving an estate that is estimated at $10,000 in the will that was filed April 3. The will was signed in August, 1920. If it can be broken, Col. Hughes will get one-third of the estate, the rest going to his brother and sister.

Col. Hughes was called over the telephone last night by a reporter for The Register and asked to confirm or deny the rumor. He replied that he had nothing to say for publication at that time, but that he would make a statement in regard to his intentions in the matter in the near future.

From this it might be gathered that Col. Hughes is seriously considering an attempt to break the will.

It is understood that counsel has been employed by both sides. The provisions of the will, in brief, are:

Two million, five hundred thousand dollars for the establishment of an orphanage, half a million dollars of which is to be devoted to the erection of suitable buildings on the Hughes' farm about four miles from the city, near Des Moines.

To W. T. Hughes, brother, $10,000.

To W. T. Hughes, brother, $10,000.

To First National bank in trust for Lizzie Hughes Walker, $10,000 for life. This reverts to the estate at her death.

To Fannie Hughes Fuden, sister, Chase City, a brick storehouse in that city.

To Elizabeth Boyd Roberts, niece, $5,000.

To Frank B. Roberts, nephew, $100.

To John Hughes Roberts, nephew, $25,000.

To Mary Spotswood Roberts, niece, $5,000.

To Eleanor Lewis Roberts, niece, $5,000.

To Jamie Clark Roberts, niece, $5,000.

To G. S. Hughes, cousin, $2,500.

To Danville General Hospital, $250,000.

Other small bequests were made.

On November 29, 1920, a codicil was drawn to the will making certain changes in the names of the executors.

The executors have qualified duly before Clerk of Court John R. Cook. Litigation over the will should it eventuate will involve probably a large array of counsel and will probably find the local market fairly divided. It is learned on good authority that on the day that Mr. Hughes signed his will he underwent an exhaustive physical examination at the hands of one or perhaps two local practitioners who are said to have subscribed under oath to their findings, this affidavit being now in the possession of Mr. Hughes' attorney.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Suicides in New York, Newark and Toronto by persons who had been reading accounts of spiritualistic theories today were followed by court action in Brooklyn to commit a porter, who was alleged to have become mentally deficient and stabbed his wife in mistake for a ghost.

Counsel for Frank Alesi, the porter, told the court that his client had been reading accounts of lectures by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, and that Alesi's mental condition was such that he should not be allowed at large. Alesi was held without bail.

The shortage of nickel coins in France is said to be due to the peasants hoarding them in preference to paper money.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Suicides in New York, Newark and Toronto by persons who had been reading accounts of spiritualistic theories today were followed by court action in Brooklyn to commit a porter, who was alleged to have become mentally deficient and stabbed his wife in mistake for a ghost.

Counsel for Frank Alesi, the porter, told the court that his client had been reading accounts of lectures by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, and that Alesi's mental condition was such that he should not be allowed at large. Alesi was held without bail.

IN THE POLICE COURT

Robert Hodges was this morning fined $5 and costs for an alleged assault on Norman James. James testified that he entered Hodges' place of business and that after he had playfully thrown a match at one of the clerks, Hodges struck him in the chest and later threw a bottle at him, which was shattered against the wall, the fragments cutting his ear. On the other hand Hodges claimed that James had been giving him a great deal of trouble in the store recently and when he spoke to him about his misbehavior Saturday, he resented and made remarks which caused him to slap him on the chest. He then went behind the counter, he said, and after James had made other remarks, he threw a bottle at him. The court held that he should not have thrown the bottle, and a fine was imposed.

Junius Ball and Charles Kyer, who said they were from Winston-Salem, were fined $2.50 each on loitering charges. They were arrested Saturday night about 11 o'clock by Sergeant J. H. Martin and Officer O. S. Mayberry. After they had chased them some distance up Main street, the officers state that without any apparent cause other than seeing them, the two men started to run, showing plainly that they were trying to evade them. After they were run down, the men were found to have had two cartons of cigarettes apiece under their coats. Thinking possibly that they had broken into and robbed some store, the officers investigated, and it was not long before they found that Tate and "Lionman" who made store on Craghead had been broken into. The men denied that they went into the place, stating that they purchased the cigarettes at a bargain from another man, who was a stranger to them. There was no way to connect the robbery directly with the two men, and no action was taken against them on these charges.

Dick Walker, colored, was fined $20 on a statutory charge.

The usual large number of drunks appeared on the docket. Various excuses and statements were made. One man submitted to being drunk, but wanted to have his case postponed until Wednesday in order that he might get a bondman so that he would have a chance to raise the amount of the fine. Another admitted that he was a "little too full," and had started home, but soon discovered that he had gone in the wrong direction, for he came across police officers, who took him in charge. A man who said that he had been doing some work at the jail, but was not a prisoner, although he had been staying there at nights so that he might be close to his work, was arrested Saturday night on his way to jail in an intoxicated condition. Instead of being allowed to go there alone, officers escorted him and placed him in a cell at his expense. He was fined the usual amount, and told that in default of payment he would have to return to the jail and be allowed the same privileges, but in a different way. Another man was found lying on the sidewalk, and was so "dead" drunk that he had to be carried to jail.

High School Notes

The High School Parent-Teacher Association held its regular meeting on Monday afternoon in the high school auditorium. A reading by Mrs. Herman Lutz and a violin solo by Robert Mobley were the most interesting numbers on the program. After the program, tea and wafers were served by the Domestic Science department.

Another victory in baseball was added to Danville High School's score when Danville won from Amherst on Thursday afternoon.

The week closed for Danville High with a carnival given by the Senior Bobbed Hair Club Friday night. The purpose of this was to raise money for the High School Annual. In attendance, fun and receipts from the various shows, the affair was a decided success.

Robert W. Jones, agent of the Southern Railway, will leave here on Tuesday for Winston-Salem, N. C., whether he goes to attend a convention of the Southern Railway Freight Agents Association on May 3, 4 and 5, at the Robert E. Lee hotel.

Kentucky Lady Tell How She Became Strong and Healthy—Recommends Cardui to Weak Women

Mount Vernon, Ky.—Mrs. Cynthia Vanhook, formerly of Stanford, but now residing here, says that after her third child was born, she undertook to resume her household work soon, and this caused her a great deal of trouble.

"I began to feel weak and all played out—not myself at all," as Mrs. Vanhook describes her condition. "For about six weeks I was just a nervous wreck. I had to have some one do all my housework."

"My doctor told me my imprudence had caused shock to the nervous system, and the thing to do was to use a tonic to build up my strength."

"He recommended Cardui."

"Very soon I saw an improvement in my condition. I used three bottles of Cardui and my health was restored."

"I am a strong, healthy woman."

This Kentucky lady adds that she never fails to recommend Cardui to weak and run-down lady friends.

Thousands of women praise Cardui to their friends.

This mild, harmless, vegetable tonic medicine has been in successful use for over forty years, in the treatment of many common ailments suffered by women.

Hair Often Ruined
By Careless Washing

Soap should be used very carefully if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo (which is better than anything else you can use).

One or two teaspoonsful of Mulsified will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

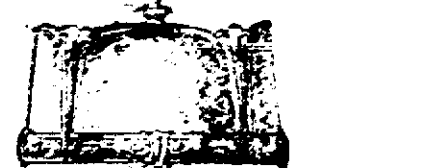

You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy. It's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—adv.

Y. W. C. A. CONVENTION

The delegates to Hot Springs have returned with enthusiasm for the national convention of the Young Women's Christian Association. It was a notable gathering of representative women from all sections of the country. Many delightful contacts were made as problems peculiar to each association were discussed at close range, establishing bonds of fellowship that will grow in fruitage in the conference of the near future.

The note of internationalism was the dominant feature of the convention. This was sounded by all the speakers from the platform.

Maude Rayden, of London, brought an inspiring message of hope and faith in the American people, stating that as our biggest contribution to war-stricken Europe, she was a powerful speaker, and a clear thinker so convincing and spiritual in her message that the big auditorium was filled long before scheduled time.

The seriousness and earnestness of the delegates was an impressive phase of the convention. Everywhere groups were in animated conversation discussing the issues of the meeting. That it was an invaluable trip no one will gainsay.

PROGRAM AT SCHOOL REPEATED

The second performance of the "Old Time Choir and Fashion Show," given under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers' Association on Friday night at Stonewall Jackson school was quite as brilliant as the first. The presentation of the old time characters was repeated because a good many people were unable to get into the auditorium for the initial performance. On Friday night the hall was packed and about a hundred people were turned away. The first half of the program included numbers given by school children in the classes, these being songs, recitations and drills showing various stages of proficiency by the children attending the Stonewall Jackson school.

The latter part of the program was reserved for the humorous events of the evening, embraced in the fashion show, with costumes ranging back to the far and distant days, and singing by the old time choir, which included in numbers which were popular half a century ago. This part of the program was directed by Mrs. F. O. Kidd, who also supervised the local talent performance, which proved one of the most popular entertainments given in North Danville for a long time.

Among the numbers which were particularly good were the duette by C. J. Walker and Miss Margaret Doggett, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," and the song, "Church in the Wildwood," sung by Misses Reeves, Walker, Lewis, Mrs. Lillie Walton, Mrs. Hopkins and Miss Doggett. Wirt Bolesau, who walked with a stiff leg, and Mat Nelson, in full evening gauds and a beaver too small for him, sang a duette, while Mrs. Kidd recited "Old Lady Going to Market," which brought insistent demands for an encore.

Another excellent number was the music by Mrs. Tate and Newman, who played the violin and the banjo.

Kelly Lewis was the choir director, while the accompanists were Mrs. Virginia Ferguson and Miss Marion Beaver. Those who took part in the Old Time Choir singing were Mrs. M. O. Nelson, Mrs. F. O. Kidd, Mrs. C. W. Kelly, Mrs. Sadie Walton, Mrs. Hattie Kelly, Mrs. Herbert Ferguson, Mrs. J. T. Tunstall, Mrs. W. A. Gardner, Mrs. Bertha Shelton, Mrs. Kennon, Mrs. Hopkins, Mrs. J. K. Jackson, Mrs. L. H. Walton, Mrs. C. J. Walker, Mrs. T. Davis, Mrs. E. G. Anderson, Mrs. Leon Taylor, Miss Hazel Tyree, Miss Marguerite Doggett, Mrs. Lyles, and Messrs. Kelly Lewis, Nelson, Bolesau, G. W. Fox, C. G. Reeves, C. J. Walker and E. G. Anderson.

Those appearing in the fashion show were Miss Agnes Ragland, Miss Lillie Ferguson, Miss Lois Wilkins, Miss Martha Nelson, Miss Frances Lumpkins, Miss Lydia Gardner, Miss Clara Barker, Miss Elizabeth Barker, Miss Ann Nelson, Miss Dorothy Beaver, Miss Frances Pennington and Miss Lucille Walton.

all day sessions with lunch served at the noon hour. The other meetings will be at night, at eight o'clock. Strong speakers both local and visiting will address those meetings.

The first meeting at Whitwell on Saturday next has a double significance. Not only does it serve as the initial meeting of the Rural Life Campaign, but it is the first district commencement for the seventh grade of the elementary schools. A very interesting program is being prepared. Each school of Tusnet District having seventh grade pupils is allowed five minutes of the program and the seventh grade pupils of the school will render some item in song or essay, tableau or recitation. It is hoped that every school of the district will be well represented not only by the attendance of the teachers and the seventh grade pupils but by other pupils, and the patrons of the school.

PENN LEADS FOR HONORS IN RELAY

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 29.—Leading honors went to the University of Pennsylvania relay teams in the annual relay carnival this afternoon, when the Red and Blue two-mile combination won the American college championship in the world's record time of seven minutes, 49.2 seconds, and the freshman quartette annexed the first year runners' national title. Earl Thompson, of Dartmouth, was an outstanding individual star, winning the 120 high hurdle in 15 seconds flat, and the discus throw, in which he easily outdistanced his nearest competitor. Hamilton Institute of Canada also shown among the school boy relays, with two decisive victories, and Cornell maintained its reputation for developing distance runners by winning the four-mile intercollegiate championship from Ohio State in last time.

DANVILLE WINNER OF THE FIRST GAME OF SEASON AT STONEWALL JACKSON

Danville, 5; Raleigh, 4. The Tobaccoists capped the first game of the season on the home diamond.

Manager Duke Duncan's Capitals dropped their first game of the 1922 season, after a hard and brilliant fight. The baseball debut here of Owner Peyton Hatcher and Manager Tommy Abbott was a glorious one. The team came from behind, overcame a three-run lead and finally drove the winning run across in the seventh.

A brace of runs in the lucky frame. And all before this a fine, enthusiastic crowd. To Pitcher Rodgers in his first game of the championship season goes much of the credit for the winning. For after the opening inning he pitched shut-out ball, led his team in batting, drove in two runs and scored the tying run himself, not to mention a batting average for the day of .447.

Raleigh started off like a whirlwind at the opening. Rodgers found it difficult to locate the plate for Winston, who was the lead-off man, and he drew a pass. Manager Duncan laid it down nicely, but Red Davis whiffed for the second out. Then Rodgers gave Floyd a slow one, right across the plate, which came unexpectedly when First Baseman Worth smashed one of Pitcher Smith's good ones over the fence at a point far beyond the score-board. Floyd's homer had just cleared the score-board.

Aggravated in the seventh, when Rodgers opened with a hit, Worth's single having knotted the count, the crowd already keyed up indulged in a fine demonstration, which grew in intensity. The game was tied by a pitched ball and reached a climax when Smith singled. With three on and none down, Worth laid down a bunt that sent both the advanced runners across and put Smith on second. When Trexler grounded to Johnson, Smith was a but slow starting for third and was caught when Davis snapped the ball back to Johnson, and completed a double killing.

The first ball was thrown across the plate by Miss Hopkins a young girl, who "wound up" like a real pitcher and hurled the ball straight and true to Catcher Abbott. The ball she threw was auctioned by Owner Hatcher for $5 and the sum donated to Hilltop sanitarium.

After the first inning, Rodgers pitched a masterly game and should not have been scored on after the initial round. Two of his four bases on balls ripened into runs, however, owing to an error in one case. Rodgers and Trexler were the duplicate hitters, and Worth with a homer and a sacrifice played a big part in the outcome.

It was demonstrated to the crowd that Manager Abbott has corralled a bunch that is full of pep and chirpiness and one always dangerous at bat. With one weak spot soon to be strengthened, and such a pitching staff as that assembled, the Tobaccoists will be very much in the fight.

Two fine outfield catches were made yesterday, one by Center Fielder Regan, the other by Trexler. The team can lay it down nicely and will win many games with square plays and the strategy which does the unexpected at bat.

On Monday Danville plays here against Greensboro and will meet the Carolinians again on Tuesday afternoon. For the present the games will begin at 4 o'clock promptly.

WOULD ERECT MEMORIAL FOR WOMEN MARTYRS

ELSIE DAVENPORT

ERECTION of a national memorial for women who lost their lives in service for the World War is the objective of a body of women, headed by Elsie Davenport, who are organizing the American Women's War Memorial association.

The idea for such a memorial was suggested by Miss Davenport, a New Yorker, to President Harding, who referred the matter to Adj. Gen. Harris of the War Department. The result was governmental approval of the plan and the formation of a committee to take in hand the organization of women interested in the project.

In order to make the memorial a really national affair the units of the association in various parts of the country, as they are organized, will have to interest their congressmen, who will present the plan in Washington. The unveiling of the memorial then will become a ceremony somewhat similar to the burial of the unknown soldier on Armistice Day, 1921.

American artists and sculptors have been asked to submit suggestions for the memorial, the base of which is to be commemorative of the surrounding figure or group a tribute to the women who lost their lives.

Designs for tablets, which local organizations are asked to place in their respective cities and will be considered.

Miss Davenport has already been promised the co-operation of the American Legion, American War Mothers, Gold Star Mothers, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Defense Society and other organizations.

ANNUAL SPRING GOLF TOURNEY HELD MAY 8 TO 13

All golf players at the Danville Golf Club have been requested by the tournament committee to turn in, before May 4, their scores for the lowest 9 holes in order that the club handicaps may be fixed.

The committee is anxious to make up the handicaps as soon as possible and where the scores are not handed in it will be forced to apply arbitrary handicap. Score cards should be placed in a box in the locker-room, put up for that purpose.

The annual spring handicap tournament will be held the week beginning May 8. The details of this tournament will be posted on the bulletin board in the club house. The scores in the tournament will be used as a basis upon which to select a team of six men to represent Danville in the Appalachian Tournament to be held in Lynchburg on May 30.

Several interesting tournaments are being arranged for the local club during this season among them being a ladies' tournament.

Danville has been invited to join in with Greensboro and Winston in the formation of the Triangle Golf League. The invitation has been accepted and there will be a meeting of the representatives of these clubs shortly for the arrangement of the dates. The matches will be played in June, July and August. One match to be played in each city all three clubs competing together and each club to be represented by a team of twelve men. A joint cup will be played for and will be held by the club winning the greatest number of points in a season. The first club to win it three times will retain possession of it. Match play Nassau count, will obtain as in previous contests between these clubs.

The Greens committee hopes to have at least four grass greens open for play within the next ten days. The other greens will be opened up for playing as quickly as possible.

Suspension of winter rules will be posted in a few days and the members are requested to look out for this and govern themselves accordingly.

Information regarding the tournaments can be had from Mr. Hays the professional at the club, or the Tournament committee which is composed of J. M. Robinson, chairman, E. W. Bryon and E. R. James.

TS CHILDREN INJURED WHEN TRUCK OVERTURNS

ROME, Ga., April 29.—Seventy-eight boys and girls, members of the Little League, troop of boy and girl scouts were injured, one of them believed to be in a critical condition, as a result of an automobile truck turning over on the approach to the Etowah river bridge, six miles from here late today. The boys and girls were on their way to a baseball game.

WHEN YOU SCORE A BALL GAME

In all cases where a base runner is retired by being hit with a batted ball, unless batted by himself, the batsman should be credited with a base hit. Base runners cannot advance on such a hit, however, except to make room for the batsman.

BAKER IS COMING TO COVER SHORT FOR DANVILLE

Of paramount interest to the baseball fans of Danville and one assuming beyond peradventure the completeness and strength of the Danville team of the Piedmont league is the announcement, authoritatively made by Manager Tommy Abbott last night that Elsie Baker, a short stop who made a brilliant record with the Richmond (Virginia League) team last year and was drafted or sold to the Toledo team of the American association, a Class Double-A aggregation managed by Roger Bresnahan.

Baker has long been sought by Manager Abbott, who played with him in Richmond last year and who knows his calibre, his speed and his value to any team. He is one of the fastest men in minor league baseball and has been acquired from the Toledo club at a stiff price because the local club-owner and manager recognized the need of a brilliant and hard-hitting short fielder to balance and strengthen the club.

Baker in 135 games with Richmond, a Class B organization, in 1921 fielded at a .931 clip, ranking third among the shortstops of the league in fielding and excelling all the shortstops, except Black of Portsmouth, in hitting. In 538 times at bat, he made 154 base-hits for 195 total bases and scored 117 runs. Twenty-two base hits were three-baggers, 29 stolen bases and 11 sacrifice hits make up an excellent batting record, and, considering his fielding, make him one of the most valuable men in the Piedmont or the Virginia league.

Baker has been ordered to report here at once and it is confidently hoped that he will arrive in time for Monday's game with Greensboro. With such a man at short field, Duffy at third, Smith at second and Worth at first, Danville will have the stellar infield of the Piedmont sextette of clubs.

PLANNED TO MURDER HIS WHOLE FAMILY

MACON, Ga., April 29.—A letter that Louis W. Randall, boilermaker, is alleged to have written to his warmest friend late today, asking that he look after the bones of his three children, started an investigation that landed Randall in jail.

According to the sheriff, Randall had started out to kill his whole family, but delivery of the letter was slower than had been figured. The closer friend delivered the letter to the sheriff and several deputies began a hunt for Randall.

Gentlemen:—My 1920 Buick is running as good today as it was when you sold it to me two years ago.

From my observation and experience I don't believe there is another car on the market as good, selling for less than $2,500. I have been a "Buick Booster" ever since I drove my first one in 1919.

Danville, Va.

Gentlemen:—Replying to your recent inquiry beg to advise that when I bought my 1922 model Buick on July 1st, 1921 we immediately went on a trip of about 1,000 miles.

I kept a record of the gasoline mileage and used about 19 gallons, making an average of better than 20 miles to the gallon. It uses practically no oil.

As to repairs, I have been very agreeably surprised. The upkeep for 6,300 miles has been very much less than I expected, from my experience with other cars.

We are all well pleased with our Buick.

in installments. I guarantee to give you every cent above my current running expenses until the bill is disposed of. All I want is to have you do what you would do to any reputable business man who came to you with a contract running into the millions of dollars—to give me credit for that machinery. Come in with me of it, and we'll forget the rest. Stay on—and I fight!"

For a long moment, Kilbane Worthington paced the floor. Then, at last he looked up.

"All right."

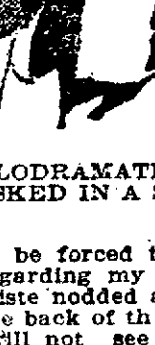

It was a grinning Barry Houston who leaped from the train at Tabernacle a week later and ran open armed through the snow toward the waiting Ba'tiste.

"You got my telegram?" He asked it almost breathlessly.

"Ah! ou! ou! ou! ou! Sacre, an' you are the wiard!"

A moment he surged with another idea. "But, now, Ba'teese have eet He shall go to Medaine! He shall tell her to write to the district attorney of Boston—say he will tell her—"

tiste, that he be forced to make no statements regarding my innocence."

Slowly Bar'tiste nodded and slapped the reins on the back of the horse.

"Bar'teese will not see Meda'ine," came at last, and they went on.

Again the waiting game.

A month went by to bring with it the bill of lading which told that the machinery was at last on its way.

March, and a few warm days, which melted the snows only that they might crust again. Back and forth traveled the bobsled to Tabernacle, only to meet with disappointment.

"I've wired the agent at Denver three times about that stuff," said the Tabernacle telegrapher and general supervisor of freight. "He's told me that he'd let me know as soon as I got in."

A week more, and winter had returned for a last fling.

They tried the bobsled, Bar'tiste and Houston, only to give it up. The horses floundered and plowed about in vain efforts to locomotion, at last plunging in the terror of a bottomless slide.

"Eet is no use," came finally. "The horse, he can not pull. We mus make the trip on the snowshoe."

They turned back for the bun' hole horses, endure a few moments late-bent, padded forms, fighting clumsily against the sweep of the storm. Ghosts they became almost, immediately, snow-covered things that hardly could be discerned a few feet away, one hand of each holding tight to the stout cord which led from waist-belt to waist-belt, their only insurance against being parted from each other in a blinding swirl of winter.

The features of the agent, as he stared up from the rattling key, were not conducive to relief.

any news to you, came with a worried laugh. "It left Denver this morning behind No. 8. Eight isn't past Tolliver yet."

"Not past Tollerifer?" Houston stared anxiously. "Why, it should be at the top of the range by now."

"Good reason. They're getting the snow worse than here. Denver reports two men inches and a flock—and it's 15 men and a flock in the range."

He tilted and banged at the key for a long moment, cursing softly. Only the dead "cluck" of a grounder the answered him.

"Things are going to get bad in this country if this keeps up," came at last. "There ain't any too great a stock of food."

At last the wire opened again, and the operator went once more to his desk.

CHILDREN HAVE LITTLE SUCCESS AT WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, April 29.—(By The Associated Press.)—Checked somewhat by failure to see President Harding, the "Children's Crusade," which invaded the capital 37 strong today, now serving prison terms, got little encouragement from Attorney General Daugherty as to recommendation for executive clemency, and were uncertain tonight of their next move.

Reaching Washington early this morning, the party, composed mostly of children under 12 or 13 years old, reached the White House shortly before 11 o'clock, to be told there was little possibility that the president would see them. The police stationed at the gates, however, of the White House, against carrying banners inside the grounds and the placards were checked outside.

Before their arrival, Secretary of the Children's Crusade, George W. McClintch, had announced to newspaper correspondents that the president would not see the crusaders, but that they would be given "every consideration" by Attorney General Daugherty.

A ray of hope for at least one mother and her son loomed when Mr. Daugherty was reached almost immediately after leaving the White House. Mr. Christian, who consented to see a small delegation, at the party composed of Mrs. O'Brien and Miss M. I. Fendell, well known locally in social work, had explained that proper procedure would be to see the attorney general and that he would make an appointment for them. The attorney general, after listening to an appeal, made by Mrs. O'Brien, announced that he was "opposed to a general amnesty," but would take up each case individually when application is made, and give careful consideration to each.

In any action that he might take, Mr. Daugherty added, he would give great weight to the question of whether the prisoners were sufficiently improved by his punishment and with the laws of the land he had violated.

TWO MEN CHARGED WITH THE MURDER OF BRUNEN

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., April 29.—(By The Associated Press.)—Two men were charged with the murder of John T. Brunen, circus owner, who was shot to death at his home at Riverside, N. J., the night of March 10, County Detective Billy Parker, tonight, said that inquiry has continued into an alleged conspiracy to do away with Brunen.

Harry C. Mohr, brother-in-law of the slain man, and Charles M. Powell, former employee in Brunen's circus, were formally charged with the crime today after Mohr was arrested in Camden.

NEED FOOD FOR THE FLOOD REFUGEES

MONROE, La., April 29.—"What we need more than anything else is food for the flood refugees," said Captain W. W. Cooper, commanding company of Louisiana National guards, at Harrisonburg tonight. "From what I have seen of the flooded country and conditions, I believe the refugees camped at Harrisonburg and Rhinehart will have to take care of some four or five thousand people within the next few days as far as what they are to eat is more than I can say, as we have no food supplies. These coming into Harrisonburg are destitute."

Treason Trial And Ball Game Share Interest

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 29.—(By The Associated Press.)—A treason trial and an amateur baseball game shared here today in interest, with the same man as central figure in both, but although the game had the larger attendance, even the longest home run could not produce the thrills of the story in court.

Details of marching through sections of three counties, the commandeering of a railroad train, a battle in which a machine gun and unnumbered rifles spat from West Virginia hills all flooded to the ears of the jury, court and spectators in the matter-of-fact tones of Ed Reynolds, coal miner and self-imposed leader of a band that had these experiences. William Blizard, sub-district president of the United Mine Workers, charged with treason and now on trial, led a similar band, the witnesses declared.

The baseball game, which in the afternoon drew the attention of the court had held in the day was between the team of the United Mine Workers of America, every man of which is here in connection with the armed march trials, and picked players of the town.

"We are going to kill Don Chaflin and that bunch and march on through Logan to Mingo and release the men in jail there," Reynolds testified. Don Chaflin, further questioning brought out, was sheriff of Logan county and "that bunch" was the deputy sheriffs, with whose aid the defendants believed Chaflin had prevented union men from parading the Logan coal fields.

Even when his direct testimony had finished and Harold W. Houston opened the cross-examination for the defense by asking about his arrest on a charge of collecting money under false pretenses, the witness did not make any display of emotion, but calmly gave his story of collecting $500 from a half dozen mine union locals for "benevolent relief," payment of part of it for a grocery bill that had been incurred in Jeffrey, which he had previously designated as a base of supplies for the fighting men on the miners' side, and delivery of the rest to M. L. Hayston, acting president of District 17 of the union, who, he said, had given him authority for making the collection.

After the meeting, he said, he and Blizard set out about for Racine, each in command of about 300 men. Arriving there that night, Reynolds sent a detachment to get a railroad train finished and Ohio, which he said they "took." On this they went the next day to Sprout, and after holding up the operator there to get the right of way, the train continued on to Madison. Blizard was on the train, Reynolds testified, but in cross examination he said he had not talked with the leader of the other contingent or heard the latter give any commands.

FAMOUS JUMBO ADORNS BONDS

MEDFORD, Mass., April 29.—Jumbo, P. T. Barnum's famous elephant, "read and gone," according to a song of Tufts college students, but he is not forgotten. His picture adorns bonds which are being issued in the Tufts College million dollar endowment campaign, in recognition of his place in Tufts' traditions. P. T. Barnum gave the body of Jumbo to Tufts and it is enshrined in state in the college museum, also given by Mr. Barnum.

Toward the fund $300,000 already is pledged and $300,000 more is to be given by the General Educational Board provided an additional $400,000 is raised. Bonds are issued in denominations of $50 and multiples thereof. Each bond is an acknowledgment of the college authorities' receipt of the fact value of the bond as a contribution to the endowment fund. It also carries coupons or script which entitles the owner directly to control the disposition of ten per cent. of the fact value to help defray the expenses of any Tufts student whom he may designate.

The organization for this campaign has been composed and the general committee includes the following: Charles L. Hutchinson, chairman; Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce; Thomas O. Marvin, chairman United States Tariff Commission; John W. Weeks, Secretary of War; Dr. Austin B. Fletcher, New York City; William

Mellon Retracts Ruling On Gifts To Foundation

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Secretary Mellon today ordered withdrawn pending further consideration, the ruling of the internal revenue bureau that contributions to the Woodrow Wilson Foundation were not exempt from income taxes.

Announcement of Mr. Mellon's action was made in a letter to Senator Glass of Virginia, made public tonight by the treasury. The letter was made public following a conference of Mr. Mellon with Assistant Commissioner Smith of the revenue bureau, acting in the absence of Commissioner Blair.

The letter to Senator Glass said: "The question of whether the contributions to the Woodrow Wilson Foundation were exempt from the federal income tax has only come to my attention since the publicity given to the ruling made. While the case differs essentially from the McKinley Memorial Association, it seems to me that in the present ruling, due consideration has been given to the effect to the congressional interpretation as to what constitutes an active educational purpose in the incorporation of the Roosevelt Memorial Association.

"I have accordingly asked Commissioner Blair to have the ruling, heretofore made, reviewed with a view to determining whether the contributions for the Woodrow Wilson Foundation could not be treated in the same way as those made to the Roosevelt Memorial Association.

"Under the circumstances, it has seemed to me proper that I should advise you of this action and that the ruling will be withdrawn pending further consideration of the matter."

"Give More Thought to Children" is the slogan for "Children's Week," which is being observed by Mount Vernon church April 28th-May 7th. During this week meetings will be held in the church in which the teachers in the Sunday school and the mothers may discuss mutual problems of child life, and the relation of home and the Sunday school. During these meetings the children will be entertained with games and stories. A social hour will be enjoyed by all.

The junior boys and girls and their parents are invited to be present Monday at 4 o'clock, beginner children and parents Tuesday at 4 o'clock and the primary children and parents Wednesday at 4 o'clock.

312 EXILES OF POLAND ARRIVE

WARSAW, April 22.—Three hundred and twelve war orphans, children of Polish exiles who died in Siberia, have arrived here from the United States after 18 months of travel which took them almost around the world. There are 168 girls and 144 boys in the party, the eldest 15 years and the youngest two and a half. The committee of Chicago women has charge of the children.

Through the efforts of the Polish National Committee of America and the American Red Cross, they were gathered up and transported across the Pacific to the United States, where they were placed in various asylums at Chicago until their return to their motherland could be arranged. A few of the children still have fathers or mothers living, and these having made their way back to Poland overseas, have been anxiously awaiting the children's return.

The voyage of the orphans from America was marred by a terrific storm which on January 29 caught the steamer Princess Matilda, one day out of New York and so damaged it that it was obliged to return to port. On February 6 the ship sailed again, docking at Bremen February 22. In the meantime an outbreak of measles in mid-ocean increased the hardships of the trip, 11 children falling ill. Four of these were too sick to proceed to the Polish hospital, and were placed in a Bremen hospital.

The children have all been placed in charge of the Carita Association of Poznan, a fund of $26,000 having been raised by the Polish National Relief Committee of America to insure their care and education.

U. S. DRY LAW STRIKES SWEDES

STOCKHOLM, April 29.—A Swedish commission may be sent to the United States to make a study of the effects of prohibition in that country and report to the Swedish people before the consultative public to prohibition to be held in Sweden next autumn.

The proposal has been made by the Central Board of the Swedish Prohibition Association or Absolute Prohibition. This organization is composed of students in the higher schools and in universities. They suggest that the commission shall be composed of an equal number of "wets" and "drys" to be appointed by the newly organized National League of Temperance.

The student organization points out the immense importance of the American experiment to the Swedish people, and that the prohibition all over the world, stating that the Swedish people, before casting their vote on this issue should receive reliable information concerning the general effects of the dry law in the United States.

The report to be submitted to the Swedish voters must be based on thorough study of the social, economic and cultural effects of prohibition. It is further pointed out that reports from the United States on the effect of the dry law are extremely contradictory and an investigation of a body composed of open-minded persons selected from both ranks would gain general confidence and be of great value to the Swedish public in deciding the wet and dry issue at this point.

Farmers Warned Not To Plant Too Much Tobacco

RICHMOND, April 29.—Farmers of the State have been cautioned by George W. Kolner, commissioner of agriculture, to guard against growing too much tobacco this year. The fact that the farmers have perfected an organization, are prepared to defend and receive more for their crops, may result in the movement to grow more tobacco than can be handled with safety. In fact, overproduction would defeat the very thing that they are seeking to effect—higher prices for the Virginia grown weed. Mr. Kolner points out that the farmers have been devoting their lives to hard work, receiving little for their tobacco, being at the whim of the buyers in the past. Two years ago the market "went to pot," as dealers say, the buyers refusing to buy on the ground that the manufacturers were stocked up. The result was that prices went all to pieces and the farmers suffered financial losses.

Mr. Kolner urges the farmers to grow other crops—corn, wheat, beans, peas, cabbage, beets, turnips, and all else to the end that they will be able to provide their own food, and then to turn to tobacco for their money crop. It is his opinion that the farmers will not be at such a disadvantage, for he will have his food guaranteed if the tobacco crop should fail. He has been seeing to impress this on the farmers at this time with the hope that they will see that he is right and enable them to so diversify their crops that they will be dependent on no one thing.

There may be war between the tobacco growers of the State and the warehousemen who are operating warehouses for the sale of leaf tobacco in many of the cities. The farmers are growing with caution this time, however, and in a number of places they have leased large establishments for the sale of tobacco, and in a number of cases the warehousemen are co-operating with the farmers and they are seeing that the warehousemen looking to the sale of tobacco. Right here is a nice question: To warehouse that decline to deal with the organized farmers will have only the "independent" farmers to sell tobacco. There are only about 20 per cent of the farmers are yet outside of the organization. The 80 per cent will pool their tobacco and they will sell under the regulations. It is understood that the warehousemen are not making a "bust" out of the farmers to grow big crops and they may have a "bust" made to do this. Growers of big crops that for cigarettes and smoking tobacco, are members of the association.

DETROIT USES PECULIAR PLAY

The Detroit club is using a play this year that looks good when it is successfully pulled, yet a great many experts are not sure. It is the "bust" play, in which a runner on second and one out. The Tigers have tried it a number of times already, but haven't met with much success. With runner on second, that runner makes a dash for third with the pitch. Of course that pulls the third baseman over to cover and it is up to the batter to hit through the territory vacated. Opposing catchers will simply reason to the pitch out to break up this play if the Tigers continue to use it. The fact that a runner can score from second on a single or an error is what makes most of the baseball experts question the soundness of the play.

Virginia Loses To North Carolina

GREENSBORO, April 29.—Pulling from his right arm a bunch of fools that would make even Thurston, the world's greatest musician, look like a bungler alongside the Woolworth building, Herman Bryson, who built from Asheville and who studies and plays baseball at the University of North Carolina, shot these twisters over the arena today this afternoon and completely baffled the ball tossers of the University of Virginia, who were unable to become off speaking terms with the rubber plate during the entire nine innings of the national pastime in the annual tilt between the two institutions.

And while Herman was doing all this, his mates were using their willows for the purpose of which they were intended, giving Holland, who was on the hillcock for the Virginians, a reception in the first frame by slapping out two hits for one marker. And as the tilt was about to draw to the close, the Carolina chaps handed him a farewell for they smacked the old horsehide for three swats which sent three runners over the counting table in the closing up what happened in the checked arena there is found:

Virginia 0, Carolina 4. But ere this narrative, which brought victory to the banner of the Carolina lads is continued, the lid must be raised to Joe McLean, the baseballer around the bases, who came his way and went into outside territory to stab the ball as it was sailing through space. But Joe is not the only member of the Carolina bunch for whom a wreath of roses is due. "Blue" Sheldahl and his alike and his fielding was stamped with the perfection label.

Every member of Coach Feltzer's squad felt perfectly at home on the neutral diamond. They drew zeros in the error column and kept their glimmers placed on the ball at all times. They used their beans for more than a comfortable parking place for their lids. In stepping about to look at the Virginia bunch, the "peaches and cream" of the nine was McCoy, who took care of the center pasture. The diamond runner-finder nailed every ball that floated in his direction. His peg to home in the eighth frame to head off a Carolina runner would have been perfect had not Holland tried to stop the ball in its flight.

Coach Ryan looked over his right and left-hand birds and chose Holland, a right-hand finger, to do the serving for his bunch. At times he showed flashes but in the eighth frame he completely lost himself around the pitching position, bobbling up plays. However, it was only in the first and eighth cantos that he was a threat.

On the other hand, Bryson made the bats of the Virginians look about as useful as a load of wooden corks at a ballet dance. Only three hits were garnished off his delivery, one of these being drive down the line. And was this same Bryson who twirled the Carolina team to victory against the Virginians last year on the same sandlot.

Double-deckers were pounded out by "Lefty" Wilson, who pitches and plays the outfield and tops his mates in slugging and by "Mule" Shirley, who takes the line. Dandies as the premier first-sack tender of Southern collegiate diamonds.

During the entire fuss only one of the Virginia players reached the third station, while but three saw the second sack. To the final inning of play, Bryson was sent to handle the stick for Mahood but the best he could do was to go out by way of short on first.

Although the field was slightly muddy because of recent rains, the play of both teams was fast with the exception of the eighth inning when the Virginia bunch appeared to ascend the heights of errorism. The final game of the championship series will be played tomorrow afternoon at Chapel Hill and the Carolina bunch is determined to make a clean sweep of the series for this season.

Letters Of Nurse and Eastlake Are Read At Trial

MONTESSO, Va., April 29.—Reading of correspondence between Miss Sarah Knox, the Baltimore nurse on trial for the murder of Mrs. Margaret I. Eastlake at Colonial Beach last September, and Roger D. Eastlake, navy petty officer and husband of the dead woman, occupied the entire session of the Westmoreland court today. Eastlake was indicted jointly with Miss Knox but was acquitted at a separate trial. The correspondence was introduced as evidence by the commonwealth in an effort to prove a motive for the crime.

The letters, 85 in number and for the most part from the nurse to Eastlake, covered a period of approximately 20 months and contained many references to Mrs. Eastlake. The correspondence also included a diary kept by Miss Knox.

The correspondence as read included references by Miss Knox to Mrs. Eastlake as "foolishly jealous" and statements to Eastlake that "life without you would be unbearable." There were also intimations of trouble between Mr. and Mrs. Eastlake, due according to the correspondence, to money which Eastlake was said to have borrowed from Miss Knox.

"Why should I be the sufferer physically and mentally? Miss Knox inquired of Eastlake in one of her letters. "I have sacrificed pocketbook, health and feelings," she wrote at another time. "Oh, Roger, Roger what have I ever done to be so tormented. I do not know why I do not expose Margaret instead of standing between her and one who would harm her."

One letter was read from Mrs. Eastlake to the nurse in which the former appealed to Miss Knox to keep out of her life and let her husband alone. She added that "the money will be paid" and that "Mr. Eastlake is much upset and so far as what you hold over me, I have told him all and he understands."

The letters to Eastlake by Miss Knox acknowledged indebtedness to her or arranged for engagements to meet her.

Simmons Charges Senate Has Not Been Given Facts

WASHINGTON, April 29.—The basic facts upon which the rates in the tariff bill were written was again the subject of debate today. Senator Simmons of North Carolina, the Democratic leader, declared that the committee had not given the Senate and the country the facts and until such had been done there was no way of determining the justice of the duties proposed. The committee majority, he said, had declared that the basis was the difference in the cost of production in the United States and abroad while it had laid down this principle in the bill itself that the basis was the difference in the selling price of the imports in the country of origin and the selling price in the United States of comparable American made goods. "I think it is absolutely necessary," he continued, "if we are to get along with this bill for us to know definitely right at the outset upon which one of these two principles for measuring the rate of protection to which an industry is entitled under the protective principle of this bill, is to be adopted. There is no way in the world by which we can intelligently discuss this matter until we have ascertained the basis and the measure of protection which it is proposed to accord to the industries of this country."

TENN. WINS TRACK MEET

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 29.—Tennessee proved superior to the Kentucky track men in a majority of the field events, scoring 28 points in the six against 25 points in the nine he had broke the tape.

track events. The Lexington lads jumped away to a lead in the 100-yard dash and were never headed. Times for the track events were slow because of the rains which had soaked Shields stadium for the past 48 hours. The relay race was the most thrilling of the afternoon. Safety gave Kentucky a ten-yard lead in the first quarter-mile lap over Arvin, which was increased to 15 yards by the end of the first lap. The lead to a point one yard in the third lap and when Boyd and Wilson became slightly mixed in the handling of the baton, Davis leaped ahead for the Vols and was never headed until six against 25 points in the nine he had broke the tape.

"Here Come the Elephants!"

Do you remember how you used to be on the job bright and early to see the circus parade? Remember how you thrilled as the lions, tigers, and the big, lumbering elephants passed in review? How the horses, the blare of the bands, the antics of the clowns, and the glitter of it all inspired you with a fervid determination to see the real show—the big performance in the tent?

You didn't realize it then, but you were getting a lot out of an attractive advertisement

Perhaps you don't realize it now, but other advertisements, just as attractive, just as interesting and far more valuable to you, parade daily before you in the columns of this paper.

The merchants and makers of everything you want or need, here display before you their most attractive wares. It is truly 'the' greatest show on earth."

The whole purpose of any advertisement is to excite your curiosity, gain your interest, arouse your desire; to tell you something you don't know; to remind you of something you have forgotten; to convince you of something over which you have been hesitating.

In short, the purpose of an advertisement is, in one way or another, to make you happier.

HOLLYWOOD'S FAST MOVIE FOLK RACE THROUGH NEW ROMANTIC NOVEL

"LINDA LEE, INC."

BY LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

A MYSTERY THRILLER WITH THE ADDED ASSET OF TIMELINESS

Those feverish days of '49 were tame and quiet compared to the high flyin' years when the movies poured gold into California.

Mediocre actresses shot into stardom; photographers jumped into directorships at fabulous salaries; peddlers became magnates. Money, money, money!—and all of it new!

Months ago Vance was discussing the "fast set" with two of his friends, a famous star and her equally famous director-husband. They agreed that a "bust" was overdue. They predicted that the excesses of the conspicuous element in Hollywood were bound to lead to tragedy.

"Great setting for a novel," said Vance. And that's how "Linda Lee, Inc." came to be written. Speed—action—mystery—romance—adventure—passion—all the ingredients of a tremendously successful popular novel are here.

The Bee is giving its readers this feature while public attention is focused on that part of the movie world which couldn't stand prosperity. The newspaper release, too, comes almost simultaneously with the publication of the novel in book form, at $2.00 a copy.

70,000 People In Flood Section Made Homeless

NEW ORLEANS, April 29.—With approximately 3,500 square miles of territory flooded by waters pouring through three breaks in the Mississippi river and overflow waters from its swollen tributaries, it was estimated tonight that seventy thousand people are homeless or are still occupying homes in the flooded area. These figures, unofficial and incomplete, were based on reports received from the flooded areas. Approximately 1,200 square miles, including plantations in Concordia, Catahoula and Tensas Parishes in Louisiana are covered with water from the break in the levee near Ferriday. The crevasse as far as the New Orleans levee spread over a territory of about 125 square miles, and 100 square miles of land have been inundated by the break at Myrtle Grove, 35 miles below New Orleans on the west bank of the river. It was estimated that 1,750 square miles in the lower Yazoo river basin which includes Yazoo, Issaquena and Warren counties, in Mississippi, have been covered with back water.

Back water has also invaded other sections of Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas, but no estimate of the extent of the land affected has been made.

EVERY FOOT OF LAND IN PARISH UNDER WATER

NATCHEZ, Miss., April 29.—Every foot of alluvial land in Catahoula Parish, La., is inundated by the break in the Mississippi levee, near Ferriday and 6,500 people have been driven from their homes according to the estimates today of N. R. Cotton, of Jonesville, member of the Louisiana State flood relief commission and the Tensas levee board.

Rhinhardt, near the line of LaSalle and Catahoula Parishes, the present terminus of the Louisiana and Arkansas rivers, is the nearest point of rail communication. Concentration camps for refugees have been established at Rhinhardt, Harrisonburg and Jonesville for the refugees brought out of their flooded homes.

All food stocks in Harrisonburg have been practically exhausted on account of the town having been without communication for more than a week, and unless assistance comes speedily the situation of not only the refugees but the people of the town will be desperate. Two hundred refugees from the Black river section arrived at Harrisonburg today and joined three hundred previously brought from the Ouachita river district.

It is learned from authoritative sources that there is a possibility of eleven thousand people being absolutely destitute in the Black river district.

Jonesville, La., where the waters of three rivers meet, the Ouachita, the Little and the Tensas, to form the Black, is now feeling the effects of the crevasse water which is pouring into the Tensas river near Clayton. The rate of rise at this point being six inches in 24 hours. All of the Black river district to the line of hills on the west side of Catahoula Parish is already flooded as a result of the backing up of the Mississippi and the crevasse water will add greatly to the depth.

ROCKY MOUNT NEWS

ROCKY MOUNT, April 28.—The circuit court was occupied Wednesday with the motion for the confirmation of the sale of the Franklin and Pennsylvania railroad which was sold to N. P. Angle, of Rocky Mount for $12,000. Saturday, April 22, 1922. The case was argued by Judge J. P. Lee, of Rocky Mount, for the purchaser, and Lucian H. Cooke, Atty., for the N. & W. railway of Roanoke, representing the supply creditors. Further hearing of the case was by consent of the court until a future day can be fixed upon. However, it is the hope of every one that a railroad company will be organized under a new charter to supply the much needed demand of at least half of the citizens of this county will be made at an early date.

The New River Convocation which convened at St. Peter's-in-the-Mountains, Franklin county, Tuesday, April 25th, was largely attended and it was an interesting and enthusiastic meeting. The attending ministers were, the Rev. W. T. Roberts, rector in charge, of Rocky Mount, and host; the Rev. G. Otis Meade, dean of this convocation, Roanoke; the Rev. Ed. W. Hughes, Chatham; the Rev. W. B. Lee, Jr., Blacksburg; the Rev. Jas. A. Figg of Christiansburg; the Rev. Carl Morgan Block of Roanoke; the Rev. Wm. Alfriend of Pulaski; the Rev. Devall L. Gwathney, Wytheville; and the Rev. L. G. Williams, Abingdon. The Rev. G. H. Williams, Salem; the Rev. Lew of Amherst, and Mr. Sargeant of the Piney Mission, N. C.

A large number of people from the surrounding county attended, and a delectable picnic luncheon was served on the lawn of the mission, after which the grown-ups as well as the children played all of the out-door games, and a most enjoyable day was spent.

"The Fall of Babylon," a most notable screen picture, will be shown at the Auditorium Theatre, May 6th. There will be special music written for this picture. This picture being a historical one every citizen of Rocky Mount should take advantage of the opportunity to see it.
